JURY EXONERATES ARTHUR SWEENEY IN DEATH OF BOY

AT INQUEST THIS MORNING JURY DECIDED SWEENEY WAS USING DUE AND ORDINARY CARE AT TIME OF ACCIDENT

A coroner's jury, composed of A. C. Seirck, A. C. Berard, F. L. Wolfe, B. O. Smith, John Bell and Henry Sampson, Jr., in a verdict rendered this morning in Judge Pomainville's court completely exonerated W. A. Sweeney, Biron, who drove the car which killed little Martin Galgan-ki last Saturday afternoon, from all blame in regard to the death of the five year old youngster. The verdict was reached after about ten minutes deliberation on the evidence testified to by witnesses of the accident.

Verdict of Jury

The verdict as returned by the jury is as follows:

State of Wisconsin, County of Wood —SS.

An inquisition taken at my office in Wisconsin Rapids, Wood County, Wisconsin, on the 31st day of May, 1923, before Judge Edward N. Pomainville, a justice of the peace of said county, upon the view of the body of Martin Galganski, at the village of Biron, in said county, there dead, by the jurors whose names are hereinto subscribed who, being duly to inquire on behalf of the State of Wisconsin when, in what manner and by what means the said Martin Galganski came to his death, upon their oath do say that Martin Galganski came to his death on or about 4:40 o'clock p. m. Saturday, May 26, 1923, by being struck and knocked down and run over by an automobile owned and driven by Arthur Sweeney and that said Arthur Sweeney was using due and ordinary care in driving his car and that there was no negligence on the part of the said Arthur Sweeney and that the death of the said Martin Galganski was accidental and unavoidable.

In witness whereof, the said justice of the peace and the jurors of this inquest have hereinto set their hands this 31st day of May, 1923.

Signed.:

Ran Directly In Path

Evidence submitted in the case tended to show that Sweeney was not driving at an excessive rate of speed and that Martin Galganski while fleeing from another boy who had been poking him with a stick, ran directly in the path of the approaching vehicle in such a manner and with such speed that it was impossible for the driver of the car to avoid hitting the youth.

Dr. Loose, the attending physician and the first witness called stated in his opinion death was due to injuries about the heart and internal injuries about the abdominal region caused by being hit and run over by the car.

Bridge Burns At Point; Is A Total Loss

The wagon bridge on state road 18, which crosses the Wisconsin river just west of Stevens Point, was completely destroyed by fire, of unknown origin, Wednesday afternoon. Large numbers of local people drove to Stevens Point to see the conflagration and report that the fire, which originated in the creosote blocks, spread with such rapidity that it was impossible for the fire companies to do anything in the way of checking the flames before the bridge had been damaged beyond repair.

At 1 p. m. the fire broke out in the creosote paving blocks and in three minutes the whole pavement was a mass of flames, filling the city with a dense black smoke. Within thirty minutes the span on the west side of the river fell into the water and the iron and structural work was melted so that the bridge is a total loss. It was built in 1875 at a cost of $100,000 but it is estimated that the cost at this time will reach approximately $200,000 if replaced by a modern fireproof, concrete structure like the bridge in this city.

In conversation with Stevens Point Journal representatives it was learned that a conference will be held tomorrow between F. F. Mengel, divisional engineer, and representatives of the city, county and state in regard to building a new concrete bridge. For the present a ferry will be installed for the accomodation of vehicles while a foot bridge is being built on the top of the Consolidated dam.

CLAUDE KITCHIN, ONCE LEADER OF DEMOCRATS, DIES

MAN WHO GUIDED PARTY'S DESTINIES IN CONGRESS DURING YEARS OF WAR POWER PASSES AWAY THIS MORNING

Wilson, N. C., May 31—Representative Claude Kitchin, formerly minority leader in the House of Representatives died at 6:14 o'clock this morning.

In the 20 years of his services in the House of Representatives, including four years as its leader during democratic control, Claude Kitchin never once lost his temper in the thick of bitter and stormy debate. His big, round, red face always was lighted with a smile or a grin "as he slaughtered the enemy," and republicans often declared that Kitchin kept smiling "as he operated on them before the country."

James R. Mann, a veteran representative from Illinois, who often crossed swords with Kitchin in the House, declared on the occasion of the latter's retirement as democratic leader, that he was vicious in debate because his attacks, like brick in a towel, were wrapped in smiles.

Voted Against War

Kitchin's greatest fight with his legislative conscience came when the House was called upon to declare war against the German government in 1917. Congress was wildly excited. Word passed back and forth among members that the majority leader

Local U. Aulmni Hear Memorial Building Plan

Prof. E. H. Gardner and John Dollert of Madison, were in this city today conferring with local alumni and former students of the University of Wisconsin on the subject of the Memorial Union contemplated for the University. They explained the many benefits which the new Union, which is a men's club room and commons, will bring to the five thousand men students at the University. A meeting was held at a luncheon at the Hotel Witter this noon attended by a committee of local alumni consisting of F. J. Wood, Geo. W. Mead, Dr. F. X. Pomainville, M. S. King, Isaac B. Witter and P. C. Daly, who will confer with other local alumni on the project later on.

Treatment Of War Vets Is Under Probe

Chicago, Ill., May 31—Self inflicted death of a world war veteran after seven weeks of treatment in Dr. George E. Bortenmeyer's Sanitorium at Lombard, Ill., formed a new consideration for authorities today as the investigation continued into charges that two women and a man had died from the effects of dieting and cold water bathing treatments produced at the institution.

Harry Blucker committed suicide in December, 1921, after he had become emaciated and delirious from treatments given him for nervous disorders resulting from war service, his father reported to officials of the state attorney's office of Dupage county.

NEW HALL - MILLS MURDER SUSPECT

AUTHORITIES UNEARTH NEW CLEW IN INVESTIGATION OF NEW BRUNSWICK DOUBLE MURDER MYSTERY.

(By Asosciated Press)

New Brunswick, N. J., May 31—County officials have unearthed a new suspect in their investigation into the murder last September of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, it was learned today.

Officials admitted that a man previously questioned and who had presented an alibi, now was the subject of investigation. It was said his story, which earlies caused his elimination as a suspect had been found to be untrue in essential details.

Recent investigations, police said, had further convinced them that the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, a nearby farmer woman, was without foundation. Mrs. Gibson maintained she had seen a man and a woman, unidentified by her, commit the murders.

Sets New Record; Dancer Is Now Violently Insane

Ranger, Tex.—W. E. McMillin of Los Angeles who was forcefully removed from a dancing floor here on Tuesday after he had danced 195 hours and fifteen minutes was reported in a serious condition at a hospital on Wednesday. McMillin, who is unconscious protested against being taken from the floor and several men were required to keep him from jumping from a window of the hospital when he was taken there. His mind was affected when the dance was stopped, physicians said.

Mr. Millan's time is said to be record, beating that set recently at Youngstown, O.

Margaret Collier who danced 101 hours and 30 minutes, claims the woman's record.

John Conklin of Dallas broke the arch of his foot after being on the local floor.

Madison Drys Refuse to Let Booze Fight Subside

Madison, Wis.—Just when legislators believed that the wet and dry fight was over for the session the drys stirred up a hornet's nest with the probability that the hottest debates around King Booze are still to be aired.

Instead of tackling general prohibition principles the drys want to investigate the personal habits of wet legislators. The committee of 100, Madison dry organization, will decide on Monday whether they will ask a senatorial investigation of reported legislative drinking bouts in local hotels and elsewhere.

President J. A. Cohen of the Chamber of Commerce, called a committee meeting on the booster tour of June 21, to be held at the Citizens National Bank at three o'clock Friday afternoon.

Wood County Telephone Co., Howards Variety Store, Bossert Coal Co., Brandt's Meat Market and County Highway Commissioner Edw. Morris are the latest boosters to join the June 21st. tour.

PAY IMPRESSIVE TRIBUTE TO DEAD OF THREE WARS

PUBLIC JOINS WITH PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS IN HONORING MEMORY OF DEPARTED SOLDIERS.

Over a thousand Wisconsin Rapids and Wood county people joined with the local posts of the G. A. R. and the American Legion, the Women's Relief Corps, the American Legion Auxiliary and the Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday in an impressive tribute to the men who offered their lives for their country in the Civil, Spanish-American, and World wars. Services by the G. A. R. and the American Legion, the principal features of the day's program, were conducted over the graves of Pvt. Sam Parker, the last G. A. R. member to die, in Forest Hill cemetery, and Pvt. George C. Schlig, the last American Legion member to pass away in Calvary cemetery.

Headed by an American Legion color guard with the national and Legion emblems, patriotic organizations of the city, with Battery E and the city band, formed at the Milwaukee road station at 10 a. m. for the march to the cemetery. Following the colors came the battery on horseback, and after them the G. A. R., the Women's Relief Corps, the city band, the Auxiliary, the American Legion and the D. A. R.

The first services were held at the grave of Sam Parker, where the G. A. R. ritual was read by M. H. Lynn, W. H. Getts and C. O. Baker of the Wisconsin Rapids post. At the close of the services an American Legion firing squad fired a salute of three volleys over the grave. The march was then resumed to the grave of George Schlig in Calvary cemetery, where the American Legion ritual was conducted by Commander Fred Schnabel and Chaplain Earl Hill of Charles Hagerstrom Post No. 9, and a similar salute fired.

A feature of the observance was the presence at the cemetery of eleven of the sixteen remaining members of the G. A. R. post. Those who attended were: M. H. Lynn, J. D. Gibson, W. J. Fisher, Eli Taylor, Charles Bender, S. A. Stainbrook, L. F. Thompson and W. H. Getts of this city, and D. W. Compton, Algoma, and C. O. Baker of Green Wood. Five others: Pat Mulroy, Nekoosa; S. Porter, Madison; Thomas Winters, Babcock; D. Moyer and Dan Carey of this city are still living but are in such feeble health that it was impossible for them to attend. George McMillan, a member of the Berlin post joined the local organization in honoring their departed comrades.

Officers of the organizations which took part in the exercises expressed their appreciation of the cooperation given by the city administration and by local business houses, and of the spirit in which the public joined with them in the observance of the day.

Zona Gale's Mother Dies at Home in Wisconsin

Bandits Free Former Beloit Army Officer

(By Associated Press)

Tientsin, China, May 31.—Hope for the speedy release of all the foreign captives held by the bandits of Paotzuku Mountain brightened almost to assurance today with the news that Major Robert A. Allen, United States Army, formerly of Beloit, Wis., and W. Smith of Manchester, England had been freed unconditionally.

Major Roland R. Pinger, United States Army, and Lee Solomon, American, have been moved to a lower level. The message from Tsao Chwnag said that "negotiations are going on favorably."

Release is Confirmed

Washington, May 31—The unconditional release of the Chinese bandits of two of their captives, Major Robert Allen, U. S. Army, and W. Smith both in good health, was confirmed by officials in dispatches received at the state department today.

World Peace Is Debt To Fallen Says Judge Reid

The establishment of world peace is the debt which the people of today owe the soldier dead, Judge A. H. Reid of Wausau told the Rotary Club members and their guests at the Decoration Day meeting of the club on Wednesday. "It is a sad thing that the men who gave their lives can not be here to enjoy the peace and prosperity which they paid for with their lives. On this day I feel that we can not without desecration think of anything but putting international peace and good will because we owe that to those brave men who laid down their lives," Judge Reid said.

Must Prevent Another War

The speaker was emphatic in saying that the United States should consider seriously the project of forming an international court or tribunal or enter with faith a League of Nations to prevent another catastrophe such as the last great war. "A settlement by some means must be provided to prevent another great war. It is high time that this nation starts to take steps toward bringing about an international understanding," he said. All men of all political faiths were urged to join in demanding an organization for promotion of world peace.

Talks on Courts

Judge Reid turned to talk briefly about the courts saying that people were assuming the attitude of hostility toward courts because politicians had conjured up in the minds of the public that courts were to sit and judge everything. He said that the courts were more speedy and accurate in the dispensation of justice than ever in the history of the country and that they were placed as part of the government by the people of this nation when the constitution was written and any acts of declaring laws enacted by legislatures and congresses as unconstitutional was the duty of the courts. If politicians want to enact laws which are unconstitutional they should amend the constitution to permit the passage of the measures they desire but they ought not preach hate against the courts, he stated.

LOCAL PASTOR IS ELECTED TO HEAD S. S. ASSOCIATION

REV. A. A. BENNETT NAMED PRESIDENT OF COUNTY ASSOCIATION AT WELL ATTENDED MEETING AT PITTSVILLE.

The Rev. A. A. Bennett, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city, was elected president of the Wood County Sunday School association at the organization's annual convention held at Pittsville today. Over 100 delegates, representing Sunday schools in all sections of the county were in attendance at the meeting, held at the Pittsville Congregational church, marking the convention as one of the largest and most successful ever held by the association. Thirty-five men were among the delegates.

Other Officers Named

Other officers of the association elected today to serve during the ensuing year were as follows: First vice-president, Hugh Williams, Sherry; second vice-president, Chas. Edwards, Arpin; secretary, Miss Elsie Hadsen, Wisconsin Rapids; treasurer, E. E. Miner, Marshfield; children's superintendent, Mrs. Alex Perrodin, Wisconsin Rapids; adult superintendent, Mrs. Ross Porter, Marshfield; administrative superintendent, L. P. Rucker, Pittsville; educational superintendent, Rev. Frank Splies, Pittsville.

The principal address of the morning session, a talk on "Work with Children" by Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner of Peoria, nationally known Sunday school worker who was in attendance at the convention, was very well received by the delegates, as was her afternoon talk on "The Church and Her Children."

Other speakers were Atty. F. W. Calkins of this city, Rev. F. J. Jordan of Marshfield, E. E. Miner of Richfield, J. L. Rogers of Oshkosh, state secretary, Rev. A. D. Gelling of Lindsey, Mrs. A. F. Perrodin of this city, Miss Emeline Schoechert of this city, Mrs. J. Ross Porter of Marshfield, the Rev. Mr. Fisher of Arpin. The Rev. J. H. Schoechert and the Rev. Fred Olson conducted devotional periods at the opening of the morning and afternoon sessions.

Lunch was served to the delegates by the Ladies Aid of the Pittsville Congregational church.

The convention opened this morning at 10 o'clock, and was scheduled to close at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Two Carloads of Cattle Shipped from Auburndale

Two cars loads of grade Holsteins, purchased by men from Lake Mills, Iowa were shipped from Auburndale the past week. As high as $150 was paid for several of the best animals, and the average price for the whole lot was over $100. At present a buyer from Mexico is assemblying another carload.

Four carloads of cattle were shipped last week by the Marshfield Equity Livestosk Shipping Association to the markets in Chicago and Milwaukee. Included in the shipment was a car of calves and a car of hogs, as well as Burling B., the 2,400 registered Brown Swiss show bull owned by Chas. Wundrow. He was eight years old and could not longer be used in the Wundrow herd.

No Prospect Of Legislative Adjournment Before July 15

LACK OF PROGRESS ON TAXATION AND OTHER PROBLEMS ADVANCES END OF SESSION FAR INTO SUMMER

Madison, Wis.—There is little hope of an adjournment of the legislature before July 15th. The tax situation has become so complicated that it will probably take a month before a full agreement will be reached on the matter. There is still pending before the senate the big highway appropriation bill and the Huber measure which provides for unemployment insurance.

All large appropriation bills are still pending in committee This means that with diligent work it will take from five to six weeks' time to clear property should be repealed and would divide the burden of taxation of the higher educational institutions between mill taxes and income taxes. No one believes that the tax situation will be settled on June 7th the date which the senate voted to take up the bill in committee of the whole. After the bill gets thru the senate, it will still have the rough road thru the assembly. The older members of the legislature cannot see where the legislature will adjourn before July 15th, and it may be even later.

the decks. With so much disagreement however over the important measures of the session it may even require a longer time.

There are now four tax bills before the legislature and Senator Kuckuk will next week present another measure which will further complicate the situation. Senator Kuckuk does not believe that the mill taxes on general

Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota Fires Checked

Superior, Wis. May 31.—Reports today indicate that all forest fires which had raged throughout the northwest during the week past have been checked. From the iron range country of Minnesota, reports today advised that only one fire of consequence still burns.

This fire, located about ten miles north of Virginia, Minnesota, is being fought by a force of twelve men. There is no grave danger of further spread of fire, advices today said.

The fires in northern Wisconsin have been successfully checked. There is little danger, reports received today said, unless the fires again are fanned into fury by high winds. A haze of smoke still hangs over Douglas and Burnett counties of Wisconsin.

A rain will put an end to all fires in short order, fire wardens who have made a survey of all the fires reported.

Local U. Aulmni Hear Memorial Building Plan

Prof. E. H. Gardner and John Dollert of Madison, were in this city today conferring with local alumni and former students of the University of Wisconsin on the subject of the Memorial Union contemplated for the University. They explained the many benefits which the new Union, which is a men's club room and commons, will bring to the five thousand men students at the University. A meeting was held at a luncheon at the Hotel Witter this noon attended by a committee of local alumni consisting of F. J. Wood, Geo. W. Mead, Dr. F. X. Pomainville, M. S. King, Isaac B. Witter and P. C. Daly, who will confer with other local alumni on the project later on.

Treatment Of War Vets Is Under Probe

Chicago, Ill., May 31—Self inflicted death of a world war veteran after seven weeks of treatment in Dr. George E. Boffenmeyer's Sanitorium at Lombard, Ill., formed a new consideration for authorities today as the investigation continued into charges that two women and a man had died from the effects of dieting and cold water bathing treatments produced at the institution.

Harry Blucker committed suicide in December, 1921, after he had become emaciated and delirious from treatments given him for nervous disorders resulting from war service, his father reported to officials of the state attorney's office of Dupage county.

NEW HALL - MILLS MURDER SUSPECT

AUTHORITIES UNEARTH NEW CLEW IN INVESTIGATION OF NEW BRUNSWICK DOUBLE MURDER MYSTERY.

(By Associated Press)

New Brunswick, N. J., May 31—County officials have unearthed a new suspect in their investigation into the murder last September of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, it was learned today.

Officials admitted that a man previously questioned and who had presented an alibi, now was the subject of investigation. It was said his story, which earlies caused his elimination as a suspect had been found to be untrue in essential details.

Recent investigations, police said, had further convinced them that the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, a nearby farmer woman, was without foundation. Mrs. Gibson maintained she had seen a man and a woman, unidentified by her, commit the murders.

Sets New Record; Dancer Is Now Violently Insane

Ranger, Tex.—W. E. McMillin of Los Angeles who was forcefully removed from a dancing floor here on Tuesday after he had danced 195 hours and fifteen minutes was reported in a serious condition at a hospital on Wednesday. McMillin, who is unconscious protested against being taken from the floor and several men were required to keep him from jumping from a window of the hospital when he was taken there. His mind was affected when the dance was stopped, physicians said.

Mr. Millin's time is said to be record, beating that set recently at Youngstown, O.

Margaret Collier who danced 191 hours and 30 minutes, claims the woman's record.

John Conklin of Dallas broke the arch of his foot after being on the local floor.

Madison Drys Refuse to Let Booze Fight Subside

Madison, Wis.—Just when legislators believed that the wet and dry fight was over for the session the drys stirred up a hornet's nest with the probability that the hottest debates around King Booze are still to be aired.

Instead of tackling general prohibition principles the drys want to investigate the personal habits of wet legislators. The committee of 100, Madison dry organization, will decide on Monday whether they will ask a senatorial investigation of reported legislative drinking bouts in local hotels and elsewhere.

PAY IMPRESSIVE TRIBUTE TO DEAD OF THREE WARS

PUBLIC JOINS WITH PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS IN HONORING MEMORY OF DEPARTED SOLDIERS.

Over a thousand Wisconsin Rapids and Wood county people joined with the local posts of the G. A. R. and the American Legion, the Women's Relief Corps, the American Legion Auxiliary and the Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday in an impressive tribute to the men who offered their lives for their country in the Civil, Spanish-American, and World wars. Services by the G. A. R. and the American Legion, the principal features of the day's program, were conducted over the graves of Pvt. Sam Parker, the last G. A. R. member to die, in Forest Hill cemetery, and Pvt. George C. Schlig, the last American Legion member to pass away in Calvary cemetery.

Headed by an American Legion color guard with the national and Legion emblems, patriotic organizations of the city, with Battery E and the city band, formed at the Milwaukee road station at 10 a. m. for the march to the cemetery. Following the colors came the battery on horseback, and after them the G. A. R., the Women's Relief Corps, the city band, the Auxiliary, the American Legion and the D. A. R.

The first services were held at the grave of Sam Parker, where the G. A. R. ritual was read by M. H. Lynn, W. H. Getts and C. O. Baker of the Wisconsin Rapids post. At the close of the services an American Legion firing squad fired a salute of three volleys over the grave. The march was then resumed to the grave of George Schlig in Calvary cemetery, where the American Legion ritual was conducted by Commander Fred Schnabel and Chaplain Earl Hill of Charles Hagerstrom Post No. 9, and a similar salute fired.

A feature of the observance was the presence at the cemetery of eleven of the sixteen remaining members of the G. A. R. post. Those who attended were: M. H. Lynn, J. D. Gibson, W. J. Fisher, Eli Taylor, Charles Bender, S. A. Stainbrook, L. F. Thompson and W. H. Getts of this city, and D. W. Compton, Algoma, and C. O. Baker of GreenWood. Five others; Pat Mulroy, Nekoosa; S. Porter, Madison; Thomas Winters, Babcock; D. Moyer and Dan Carey of this city are still living but are in such feeble health that it was impossible for them to attend. George McMillan, a member of the Berlin post joined the local organization in honoring their departed comrades.

Officers of the organizations which took part in the exercises expressed their appreciation of the cooperation given by the city administration and by local business houses, and of the spirit in which the public joined with them in the observance of the day.

Zona Gale is an only daughter.

Bandits Free FormerBeloit Army Officer

(By Associated Press)

Tientsin, China, May 31. —Hope for the speedy release of all the foreign captives held by the bandits of Paotzuku Mountain brightened almost to assurance today with the news that Major Robert A. Allen, United States Army, formerly of Beloit, Wis., and W. Smith of Manchester, England had been freed unconditionally.

Major Roland R. Pinger, United States Army, and Lee Solomon, American, have been moved to a lower level. The message from Tsao Chwang said that "negotiations are going on favorably."

Release is Confirmed

Washington, May 31—The unconditional release of the Chinese bandits of two of their captives, Major Robert Allen, U. S. Army, and W. Smith, both in good health, was confirmed by officials in dispatches received at the state department today.

World Peace Is Debt To Fallen Says Judge Reid

The establishment of world peace is the debt which the people of today owe the soldier dead, Judge A. H. Reid of Wausau told the Rotary Club members and their guests at the Decoration Day meeting of the club on Wednesday. "It is a sad thing that the men who gave their lives can not be here to enjoy the peace and prosperity which they paid for with their lives. On this day I feel that we can not without desecration think of anything but putting international peace and good will because we owe that to those brave men who laid down their lives," Judge Reid said.

Must Prevent Another War

The speaker was emphatic in saying that the United States should consider seriously the project of forming an international court or tribunal or enter with faith a League of Nations to prevent another catastrophe such as the last great war. "A settlement by some means must be provided to prevent another great war. It is high time that this nation starts to take steps toward bringing about an international understanding," he said. All men of all political faiths were urged to join in demanding an organization for promotion of world peace.

Talks on Courts

Judge Reid turned to talk briefly about the courts saying that people were assuming the attitude of hostility toward courts because politicians had conjured up in the minds of the public that courts were to sit and judge everything. He said that the courts were more speedy and accurate in the dispensation of justice than ever in the history of the country and that they were placed as part of the government by the people of this nation when the constitution was written and any acts of declaring laws enacted by legislatures and congresses as unconstitutional was the duty of the courts. If politicians want to enact laws which are unconstitutional they should amend the constitution to permit the passage of the measures they desire but they ought not preach hate against the courts, he stated.

No Prospect Of Legislative Adjournment Before July 15

LACK OF PROGRESS ON TAXATION AND OTHER PROBLEMS ADVANCES END OF SESSION FAR INTO SUMMER

Madison, Wis.—There is little hope of an adjournment of the legislature before July 15th. The tax situation has become so complicated that it will probably take a month before a full agreement will be reached on the matter. There is still pending before the senate the big highway appropriation bill and the Huber measure which provides for unemployment insurance.

All large appropriation bills are still ponding in committee This means that with diligent work it will take from five to six weeks' time to clear property should be repealed and would divide the burden of taxation of the higher educational institutions between mill taxes and income taxes. No one believes that the tax situation will be settled on June 7th the date which the senate voted to take up the bill in committee of the whole. After the bill gets thru the senate, it will still have the rough road thru the assembly. The older members of the legislature cannot see where the legislature will adjourn before July 15th, and it may be even later.

the decks. With so much disagreement however over the important measures of the session it may even require a longer time.

There are now four tax bills before the legislature and Senator Kuckuk will next week present another measure which will further complicate the situation. Senator Kuckuk does not believe that the mill taxes on general

LOCAL PASTOR IS ELECTED TO HEAD S. S. ASSOCIATION

REV. A. A. BENNETT NAMED PRESIDENT OF COUNTY ASSOCIATION AT WELL ATTENDED MEETING AT PITTSVILLE.

The Rev. A. A. Bennett, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city, was elected president of the Wood County Sunday School association at the organization's annual convention held at Pittsville today. Over 100 delegates, representing Sunday schools in all sections of the county were in attendance at the meeting, held at the Pittsville Congregational church, marking the convention as one of the largest and most successful ever held by the association. Thirty-five men were among the delegates.

Other Officers Named

Other officers of the association elected today to serve during the ensuing year were as follows: First vice-president, Hugh Williams, Sherry; second vice-president, Chas. Edwards, Arpin; secretary, Miss Elsie Hanlsen, Wisconsin Rapids; treasurer, E. E. Miner, Marshfield; children's superintendent, Mrs. Alex Perrodin, Wisconsin Rapids; adult superintendent, Mrs. Ross Porter, Marshfield; administrative superintendent, L. P. Rucker, Pittsville; educational superintendent, Rev. Frank Splies, Pittsville.

The principal address of the morning session, a talk on "Work with Children" by Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner of Peoria, nationally known Sunday school worker who was in attendance at the convention, was very well received by the delegates, as was her afternoon talk on "The Church and Her Children."

Other speakers were Atty. F. W. Calkins of this city, Rev. F. J. Jordan of Marshfield, E. E. Miner of Richfield, J. L. Rogers of Oshkosh, state secretary, Rev. A. D. Gelling of Lindsey, Mrs. A. F. Perrodin of this city, Miss Emeline Schoechert of this city, Mrs. J. Ross Porter of Marshfield, the Rev. Mr. Fisher of Arpin. The Rev. J. H. Schoechert and the Rev. Fred Olson conducted devotional periods at the opening of the morning and afternoon sessions.

Lunch was served to the delegates by the Ladies Aid of the Pittsville Congregational church.

The convention opened this morning at 10 o'clock, and was scheduled to close at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Two Carloads of Cattle Shipped from Auburndale

Two cars loads of grade Holsteins, purchased by men from Lake Mills, Iowa were shipped from Auburndale the past week. As high as $150 was paid for several of the best animals, and the average price for the whole lot was over $100. At present a buyer from Mexico is assemblying another carload.

Four carloads of cattle were shipped last week by the Marshfield Equity Livestosk Shipping Association to the markets in Chicago and Milwaukee. Included in the shipment was a car of calves and a car of hogs, as well as Butling B., the 2,400 registered Brown Swiss show bull owned by Chas. Wundrow. He was eight years old and could not longer be used in the Wundrow herd.

Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota Fires Checked

Superior, Wis. May 31.—Reports today indicate that all forest fires which had raged throughout the northwest during the week past have been checked. From the iron range country of Minnesota, reports today advised that only one fire of consequence still burns.

This fire, located about ten miles north of Virginia, Minnesota, is being fought by a force of twelve men. There is no grave danger of further spread of fire, advices today said.

The fires in northern Wisconsin have been successfully checked. There is little danger, reports received today said, unless the fires again are fanned into fury by high winds. A haze of smoke still hangs over Douglas and Burnett counties of Wisconsin.

A rain will put an end to all fires in short order, fire wardens who have made a survey of all the fires reported.

MEMORIAL DAY

No one who attended the Memorial exercises at Forest Hill and Calvary cemeteries yesterday came away without the feeling that May 30 is in truth a "Holy Day," a day of sincere reverence and tribute to those now gone who unselfishly did their part and offered their lives in sacrifice to their country's need. It is the one holiday observed in America of which the original significance is still maintained, and we hope that as the years pass it will remain a day, not devoted to recreation or pleasure as are for the most part our other holidays, but to the quiet honoring of the memory of those who have gone before.

The exercises at the cemeteries yesterday were particularly impressive because of the absence of oratory and of pomp or display of any sort. Over one thousand citizens of Wisconsin Rapids and of the surrounding community joined with a little group of Grand Army men, and with the larger body of young men but recently returned from the fields of France, in a few minutes of reverence and prayer at the graves of the veterans of the Civil and World Wars who last died. It was a true expression of the spirit of the day, and one that could not but leave a lasting impression upon those who took part in it.

AMNESTY FOR POLITICAL PRISONERS

For the information of those who oppose the release of the so called "free speech" or political prisoners now held in federal prisons for war time offenses, we submit here the names of a few of the men of prominence in various lines of endeavor who recently after a thorough study of the merits of the cases, signed their names to the joint amnesty petition sent to President Harding Monday:

William Allen White, whose editorial on free speech recently won the Politzer prize for the best editorial of the year; Dr. Russell H. Conwell, president of Temple University and winner of the Edward Bok prize awarded the citizen of Philadelphia rendering the most distinguished service during each year; Dr. Richard D. Cabot, eminent medical authority of Harvard University who served as a Lieutenant Colonel in France during the war; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York; Glenn Frank, editor of Century magazine; Herbert Bayard Swope, editor of the New York World; Julia Lathrop, former chief of the Children's Bureau, department of Labor; Dean Charles N. Lathrop, secretary of the social service department of the Protestant Episcopal church; Mary E. Wooley, president Mt. Holyoke college; W. A. Neilson, president of Smith college; Francis B. Sayre, son-in-law of former president Wilson; Gov. W. P. Hunt, Arizona; Gov. Wm. E. Sweet, Colorado; Gov. Jonathan M. Davis, Kansas.

Others who have similarly expressed themselves on the same subject include: Senator Wm. E. Borah, Idaho; Senator George Wharton Pepper, Pennsylvania; Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commander of the 27th division, A. E. F., and many others.

Eagle Shirts Win Six to Five

For years men's shirts gapped at the waist and revealed the underworld. Then the makers of Eagle Shirts added a sixth button to the front, a sixth button that decreased the space between the other five, that kept the shirt closed in front whether tucked in or worked out.

Men like that sixth button. Their wives like it too, because they know it's on to stay with four more stitches than they count in most makes.

Wear the six-buttoned Eagle Shirt. Here is smart patterns, the popular solid shades and in a variety of models. $2.00 to $5.00.

would vote against it. Later, on the afternoon of April 6, members of the leader's family and some of his most intimate friends were in his office. For once the leader had lost his smile. He was weary and fagged from loss of sleep. He told the group that he could not bring his conscience to the point of voting for war, that his right of leader because of it would be challenged, but that he didn't care because his heart spoke against it.

Then he went to the House chamber—with every seat filled and a vast throng in the gallery—and during a tense and dramatic moment, took his stand against war.

But once war was declared Kitchin threw his support whole-heartedly into fight and championed every move by the government for victory. There were times, it was said, when he was at odds with President Wilson at White House conferences, but his political enemies never doubted his patriotism after the weight of American arms had been thrown on the side of the Allies.

Framed War Revenue Bill

In the early days of 1919, Kitchin, when a Republican House, elected the preceding fall was waiting to come into power, went to the front as the party leader with the biggest war revenue bill ever framed by an American Congress. He put it through. Long a member of the ways and means committee which framed the bill, Kitchin had every figure at his finger tips. Fordney, of Michigan, who succeeded him as Chairman of the committee, fought him at every step.

It was during the revenue bill debate, while the House was considering a luxury tax on shirts, that Kitchin standing before hundreds of well dressed men declared he never paid more than $2 for a shirt in his life. His plea for simplicity in dress while the country was burdened with the big cost of war was taken up by the press, and two dollar shirts were urged.

C. R. Goldsworthy of Vesper was a visitor in the city today.

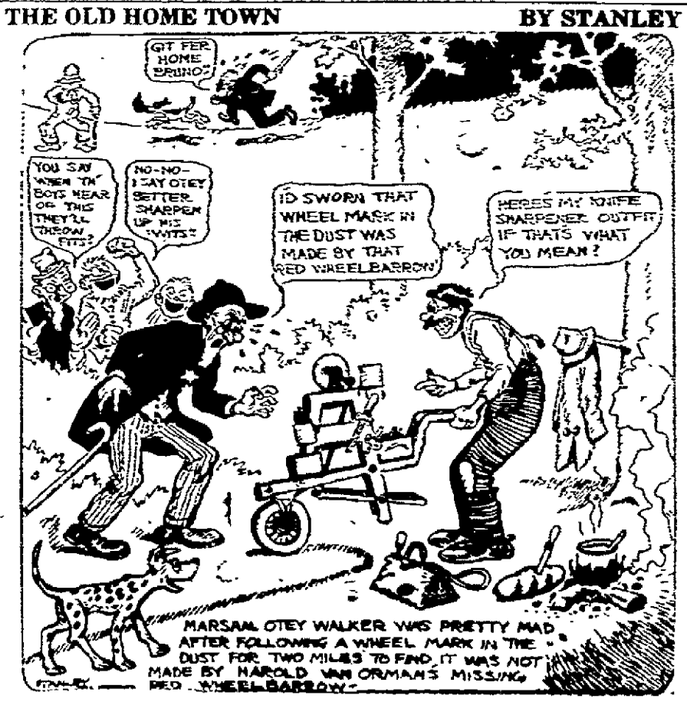
THE OLD HOME TOWN BY STANLEY



FLOWING GOLD

By REX BEACH

(COPYRIGHT 1922 BY REX BEACH)
PRINTED BY ARRANGEMENT WITH METROPOLITAN NEWSPAPER SERVICE, NEW YORK

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray occupies the Governor's suite in the Ajax, the most expensive hotel in Dallas. He introduces himself to the hotel manager, to the president of the largest bank and to the mayor of Dallas. The leading newspaper gives a writeup to Calvin Gray, "globe trotter, soldier of fortune and financier." To the hotel manager Gray admits that he is Colonel Calvin Gray. In the hotel dining room Gray meets an old friend, who is vice president of the biggest jewelry house in Dallas. Gray offers to go to Ranger and try to sell some valuable diamonds to Gus Briskow, who has struck oil.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"Excellent! There no longer is any questioned about my going." Gray announced, firmly "I am bored: I am stale; a thrill, of whatever sort, would stir my blood."

"Don't be silly. How could I pay you if you did go?"

"Um-m!" This idea, it seemed had not occured to Mr. Gray. It was plain that money meant nothing to him.

"You see! We couldn't permit—"

"I have it. We'll divorce friendship and sentiment entirely from the discussion and reduce it to a strictly business basis. You shall ease your conscience by paying my traveling expenses. The emotional suspense that I undergo shall be my reward. I'll take my commission in thrills."

This offer evoked a light laugh from Gray's guest. "You'd get enough of 'em," he asserted. "I'll advance a mild one, on account, at this moment. Notice the couple dining at the third table to your left." Gray lifted his eyes. "What do you see?"

"A rather well-dressed, hard-faced man and a decidedly attractive woman—brunette. There's a suggestion of repressed widowhood about her. It's the gown, probably. I am not yet in my dotage, and I had seen her before I saw you."

"She's living here. I don't know much about her, but the man goes by the name of Mallow."

"No thrill yet."

"He's been hanging about our store for the past month, making a few purchases, and getting acquainted with some of the clerks. Wherever I go, lately, there he is. I'll wager if I took tonight's train for Ranger, he'd be on it."

Calvin Gray turned now and openly stared at the object of Coverly's suspisions. There was an alert interest in his eyes. "You've cinched the matter with me," he declared, after a moment. "Get out your diamonds tomorrow; I'm going to take the night train to Ranger."

Later that evening, after his guest had gone, Gray took occasion deliberately to put himself in Mallow's way and to get into conversation with him. For the better part of an hour the two men smoked and talked, and had Coverly overheard their conversation his blood would have chilled and he would have prematurely aged, for his worldwise, suave man of affairs, actually permitted himself to be pumped like a farmer's son.

Once Gray was in his rooms, however, his manner changed, and into his eyes there came a triumphant glitter. Hastily he rummaged through one of his bags, and from a collection of trinkets, souvenirs, and the like he selected an object which he examined carefully, then took into the bathroom for further experiment.

CHAPTER III

Bob Parker Comes Home

OLD Tom Parker was a "type." He was one of a small class of men at one time common to the west, but now rapidly disappearing. A turbulent life time spent in administering the law in a lawless region had stamped him with the characteristics of a frontier officer.

Among the late comers to Witchita Falls, where he lived, Tom was known as a quiet-spoken, emotionless old fellow with an honorable past. It was not generally known that he was a kind and indulgent father and had a daughter whom he worshiped with blind adulation. This ignorance was not strange, for Miss Barbara Parker had been away at college for four years now, and during that time she had not once returned home.

There was a perfectly good reason for this prorracted separation of father and daughter: since old Tom was no longer on pay, it took all he could rake and scrape to meet her bills and railroad fares are high.

Tom carried on a nominal fire-insurance business, but as a matter of fact the tiny two-roomed frame structure that bore his painted sign was nothing more or less than a loafing place for him and his rheumatic friends.

The time came, however, when he was forced to shed his habit of slothfulness as completely as a snake sheds its skin, and that was during the week before "Bob's" arrival. Then, indeed, he swept and he dusted, he mopped and he polished, he rubbed and he scrubbed, trying his best to put the house in order.

On the day set for Bob's arrival Tom had his dishes washed and his things in order long ere the town was awake. Then he went down to the office and waited—with the jumps. Repeatedly he consulted his heavy gold watch, engraved: "With the admiration and gratitude of the citizens of Burlingame. November fifth, 1892." It was still two hours of train time when he locked up and limped off toward the station, but— it was well to be there early.

Of course he met Judge Halloran on the street— he always did—and of course the judge asked when "Bob" was coming home. The judge always did that, too. Old Tom had lied diligently to the judge every day for a month now, for he had no intention of sharing this day of days with a tiresome old pest, and now he again made an evasive answer.

It was only upon occasions like this meeting that "Bob" kissed her father, for she had been reared as a boy and taught to shun emotional display.

"Oh, daddy, it has been a long time!" Those were the first words either of them had spoken.

Barbara was anything but boyish to look at: quite the opposite! in fact. She was delightfully feminine from the crown of her smart little traveling hat to her dainty French heels, and although her suit was not expensive, it was worn with an air and was perhaps as fetching as any that had ever come to Witchita Falls.

"Well, son, there's a boom on and the town has grown some; but I guess things are about the same as when you left 'em." Tom spoke with pride and saisfaction as he paid the driver, took Barbara's suitcase, and opened the gate for her.

The girl turned from her first long, appraising gaze at the modest home. No change, indeed! The paint on the house was peeling, gutters had rusted out, some of the porch flooring had rotted through, the yard was unkempt tangle of matted grass and weeds and neglected shrubbery.

"It hasn't changed a mite," she said, bravely.

A moment later she paused upon the threshold, tense, thrilled, apparently speechless. This time it was more difficult to counterfeit an exclamation of joy.

"Why, everything is right where it belongs! How wonderfully you've kept house! You must have a perfect jewel of a girl, dad!"

"I let Aunt Lizzie go 'bout three years back," Tom explained. "She got—shiftless and I been sort of batching since. Clean, though, ain't it?"

Barbara turned: blindly she walked to the center table and buried her face in a bouquet of wild flowers garnered from the yard. She held it there for a moment before she spoke. "You—didn't even forget that I love bluebonnets, did you, dad?"

"Bob's room was saved for the last, and Old Tom stood back, glowing at her delight. He could not refrain from showing her his blackened thumb-nail—the price of his carpentry—for he hoped she'd kiss it. And she did.

Not until she had "shooed" him out and sent him downstairs, did she give way to those emotions she had been fighting this long time; then her face grew white and tragic. "Oh, daddy, daddy!" she whispered. "What have I done to you?"

Tom Parker had raised his girl like a son, and like a son she took hold of things, but with a daughter's fact. Her intuition told her much, but she did not arrive at a full appreciation of the family affairs until she had the house running and went down to put his office in order. Then, indeed, she learned at what cost had come those four expensive years in the East, and the truth left her limp.

Tom was mortgaged to the hilt; his royalties were pledged; a crow could not pick a living out of his insurance business.

Something had to be done, and quickly: a new hand was needed to mend the family fortunes. Barbara determined to lend that hand.

After a fortnight of careful consideration she decided to enter the oil business and deal in leases.

"We'll be partners, dad. You run the insurance and I'll be the lease hound."

"Say—" Tom's eye brightened. "I'll put a desk right alongside of mine—a little feller, just your size—and a nice lounge in the back room, where you can lay down when you're tired. You been away so long it seems like I can't have you close enough." Another thought presented itself, and he manifested sudden excitement. "I tell you! I'll get a new sign painted, too! 'Tom and Bob Parker. Real Estate and Insurance. Oil Properties and Leases.' Gosh! It's a great idea, son!"

CHAPTER IV

In Ranger Town

A YEAR before this story opens the town of Ranger, Texas, consisted of a wheatherbeaten, run-down railroad station, a black-smith shop, and a hitching rail, town enough, incidentally, for the limited number of people and the scanty amount of merchandise that passed through. The few farms and ranches round about were scattered widely, and life thereon was a grim struggle against heartbreak, by reason of the gaunt, gray, ever-present specter of the drought.

Geologists had claimed for some time that there must be coal in these north Texas counties, a contenton perhaps based upon a comfortable belief in the law of compensation.

MEMORIAL DAY

No one who attended the Memorial exercises at Forest Hill and Calvary cemeteries yesterday came away without the feeling that May 30 is in truth a "Holy Day," a day of sincere reverence and tribute to those now gone who unselfishly did their part and offered their lives in sacrifice to their country's need. It is the one holiday observed in America of which the original significance is still maintained, and we hope that as the years pass it will remain a day, not devoted to recreation or pleasure as are for the most part our other holidays, but to the quiet honoring of the memory of those who have gone before.

The exercises at the cemeteries yesterday were particularly impressive because of the absence of oratory and of pomp or display of any sort. Over one thousand citizens of Wisconsin Rapids and of the surrounding community joined with a little group of Grand Army men, and with the larger body of young men but recently returned from the fields of France, in a few minutes of reverence and prayer at the graves of the veterans of the Civil and World Wars who last died. It was a true expression of the spirit of the day, and one that could not but leave a lasting impression upon those who took part in it.

AMNESTY FOR POLITICAL PRISONERS

For the information of those who oppose the release of the so called "free speech" or political prisoners now held in federal prisons for war time offenses, we submit here the names of a few of the men of prominence in various lines of endeavor who recently after a thorough study of the merits of the cases, signed their names to the joint amnesty petition sent to President Harding Monday:

William Allen White, whose editorial on free speech recently won the Pulitzer prize for the best editorial of the year; Dr. Russell H. Conwell, president of Temple University and winner of the Edward Bok prize awarded the citizen of Philadelphia rendering the most distinguished service during each year; Dr. Richard D. Cabot, eminent medical authority of Harvard University who served as a Lieutenant Colonel in France during the war; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York; Glenn Frank, editor of Century magazine; Herbert Bayard Swope, editor of the New York World; Julia Lathrop, former chief of the Children's Bureau, department of Labor; Dean Charles N. Lathrop, secretary of the social service department of the Protestant Episcopal church; Mary E. Wooley, president Mt. Holyoke college; W. A. Neilson, president of Smith college; Francis B. Sayre, son-in-law of former president Wilson; Gov. W. P. Hunt, Arizona; Gov. Wm. E. Sweet, Colorado; Gov. Jonathan M. Davis, Kansas.

Others who have similarly expressed themselves on the same subject include: Senator Wm. E. Borah, Idaho; Senator George Wharter Pepper, Pennsylvania; Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commander of the 27th division, A. E. F., and many others.

Troubles Over, States Popular Hotel Man

"My friends all say I look better than I have in years, and I certainly do feel the part, too," recently said Geo. L. Burke, popular lay clerk at the Portland Hotel, 555 Main St., Kansas City, Mo., and a former resident of Youngstown, O., in relating his experience with Tanlac.

"Before taking Tanlac I had no appetite and for ten years had been almost a chronic sufferer from indigestion. Rheumatism, knife-like pains in my back, headaches, dizzy spells and frayed nerves also added to my misery. I was losing weight and had to strain every nerve and muscle to keep going.

"Well, Tanlac did away with all my troubles, added fifteen pounds to my weight and put me in the pink of condition. I can't say enough for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Take no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Eagle Shirts Win Six to Five

For years men's shirts gapped at the waist and revealed the underworld. Then the makers of Eagle Shirts added a sixth button to the front, a sixth button that decreased the space between the other five, that kept the shirt closed in front whether tucked in or worked out Men like that sixth button. Their wives like it too, because they know it's on to stay with 50% more stitches than they count in most makes.

Wear the six-buttoned Eagle Shirt. Here in smart patterns, the popular solid shades and in a variety of models. $2.00 to $5.00.

Wausau Unveils Great Memorial To Soldier Dead

Wausau, Wis.—Impressive ceremonies marked the unveiling and dedication here yesterday of a large and beautiful monument as a memorial to Marathon county men who made the supreme sacrifice on the World war. The program was arranged and carried out under the auspices of Burns Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Major General William Ryan, commander of the 32nd Division of the A. E. F., under whom the majority of the men whose names appear on the monument served before they were killed, delivered the dedication address and United States Senator Irvine Lenroot was the principal speaker. M. J. Berres, chairman of the county board, accepted the monument for the county.

The monument, an elaborate bronze affair is the work of Carl Heber, New York City, well known sculptor. It was erected from a fund of more than $20,000 contributed by citizens of Marathon county.

would vote against it. Later, on the afternoon of April 6, members of the leader's family and some of his most intimate friends were in his office. For once the leader had lost his smile. He was weary and fagged from loss of sleep. He told the group that he could not bring his conscience to the point of voting for war, that his right of leader because of it would be challenged, but that he didn't care because his heart spoke against it.

Then he went to the House chamber—with every seat filled and a vast throng in the gallery—and during a tense and dramatic moment, took his stand against war.

But once war was declared Kitchin threw his support whole-heartedly into fight and championed every move by the government for victory. There were times, it was said, when he was at odds with President Wilson at White House conferences, but his political enemies never doubted his patriotism after the weight of American arms had been thrown on the side of the Allies.

Framed War Revenue Bill

In the early days of 1919, Kitchin, when a Republican House, elected the preceding fall was waiting to come into power, went to the front as the party leader with the biggest war revenue bill ever framed by an American Congress. He put it through. Long a member of the ways and means committee which framed the bill, Kitchin had every figure at his finger tips. Fordney, of Michigan, who succeeded him as Chairman of the committee, fought him at every step.

It was during the revenue bill debate, while the House was considering a luxury tax, on shirts, that Kitchin standing before hundreds of well dressed men declared he never paid more than $2 for a shirt in his life. His plea for simplicity in dress while the country was burdened with the big cost of war was taken up by the press, and two dollar shirts were urged.

C. R. Goldsworthy of Vesper was a visitor in the city today.

THE OLD HOME TOWN — BY STANLEY

FLOWING GOLD

BY REX BEACH

(COPYRIGHT 1922 BY REX BEACH)

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray occupies the Governor's suite in the Ajax, the most expensive hotel in Dallas. He introduces himself to the hotel manager, to the president of the largest bank and to the mayor of Dallas. The leading newspaper gives a writeup to Calvin Gray, "globe trotter, soldier of fortune and financier." To the hotel manager Gray admits that he is Colonel Calvin Gray. In the hotel dining room Gray meets an old friend, who is vice president of the biggest jewelry house in Dallas. Gray offers to go to Ranger and try to sell some valuable diamonds to Gus Briskow, who has struck oil.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"Excellent! There no longer is any questioned about my going," Gray announced, firmly "I am bored; I am stale; a thrill, of whatever sort, would stir my blood."

"Don't be silly. How could I pay you if you did go?"

"Um-m!" This idea, it seemed had not occured to Mr. Gray. It was plain that money meant nothing to him.

"You see? We couldn't permit—"

"I have it. We'll divorce friendship and sentiment entirely from the discussion and reduce it to a strictly business basis. You shall ease your conscience by paying my traveling expenses. The emotional suspense that I undergo shall be my reward. I'll take my commission in thrills."

This offer evoked a light laugh from Gray's guest. "You'd get enough of 'em," he asserted. "I'll advance a mild one, on account, at this moment. Notice the couple dining at the third table to your left." Gray lifted his eyes. "What do you see?"

"A rather well-dressed, hard-faced man and a decidedly attractive woman—brunette. There's a suggestion of repressed widowhood about her. It's the gown, probably. I am not yet in my dotage, and I had seen her before I saw you."

"She's living here. I don't know much about her, but the man goes by the name of Mallow."

"No thrill yet."

"He's been hanging about our store for the past month, making a few purchases and getting acquainted with some of the clerks. Wherever I go, lately, there he is. I'll wager if I took tonight's train for Ranger, he'd be on it."

Calvin Gray turned now and openly stared at the object of Coverly's suspisions. There was an alert interest in his eyes. "You've cinched the matter with me," he declared, after a moment. "Get out your diamonds tomorrow; I'm going to take the night train to Ranger."

Later that evening, after his guest had gone, Gray took occasion deliberately to put himself in Mallow's way and to get into conversation with him. For the better part of an hour the two men smoked and talked, and had Coverly overheard their conversation his blood would have chilled and he would have prematurely aged, for his worldwise, suave man of affairs, actually permitted himself to be pumped like a farmer's son.

Once Gray was in his rooms, however, his manner changed, and into his eyes there came a triumphant glitter. Hastily he rummaged through one of his bags, and from a collection of trinkets, souvenirs, and the like he selected an object which he examined carefully, then took into the bathroom for further experiment.

CHAPTER III

Bob Parker Comes Home

OLD Tom Parker was a "type." He was one of a small class of men at one time common to the west, but now rapidly disappearing. A turbulent life time spent in administering the law in a lawless region had stamped him with the characteristics of a frontier officer.

Among the late comers to Witchita Falls, where he lived, Tom was known as a quiet-spoken, emotionless old fellow with an honorable past. It was not generally known that he was a kind and indulgent father and had a daughter whom he worshiped with blind adulation. This ignorance was not strange, for Miss Barbara Parker had been away at college for four years now, and during that time she had not once returned home.

There was a perfectly good reason for this protracted separation of father and daughter; since old Tom was no longer on pay, it took all he could rake and scrape to meet her bills and railroad fares are high.

Tom carried on a nominal fire-insurance business, but as a matter of fact the tiny two-roomed frame structure that bore his painted sign was nothing more or less than a loafing place for him and his rheumatic friends.

The time came ,however, when he was forced to shed his habit of slothfulness as completely as a snake sheds its skin, and that was during the week before "Bob's" arrival. Then, indeed, he swept and he dusted, he mopped and he polished, he rubbed and he scrubbed, trying his best to put the house in order.

On the day set for Bob's arrival Tom had his dishes washed and his things in order long ere the town was awake. Then he went down to the office and waited—with the jumps. Repeatedly he consulted his heavy gold watch, engraved: "With the admiration and gratitude of the citizens of Burlingame. November fifth, 1892." It was still two hours of train time when he locked up and limped off toward the station, but— it was well to be there early.

Of course he met Judge Halloran on the street— he always did—and of course the judge asked when "Bob" was coming home. The judge always did that, too. Old Tom had lied diligently to the judge every day for a month now, for he had no intention of sharing this day of days with a tiresome old pest, and now he again made an evasive answer.

It was only upon occasions like this meeting that "Bob" kissed her father, for she had been reared as a boy and taught to shun emotional display.

"Oh, daddy, it has been a long time!" Those were the first words either of them had spoken.

Barbara was anything but boyish to look at; quite the opposite, in fact. She was delightfully feminine from the crown of her smart little traveling hat to her dainty French heels, and although her suit was not expensive, it was worn with an air and was perhaps as fetching as any that had ever come to Witchita Falls.

"Well, son, there's a boom on and the town has grown some; but I guess things are about the same as when you left 'em." Tom spoke with pride and satisfaction as he paid the driver, took Barbara's suitcase, and opened the gate for her.

The girl turned from her first long, appraising gaze at the modest home. No change, indeed! The paint on the house was peeling, gutters had rusted out, some of the porch flooring had rotted through, the yard was unkempt tangle of matted grass and weeds and neglected shrubbery.

"It hasn't changed a mite," she said, bravely.

A moment later she paused upon the threshold, tense, thrilled, apparently speechless. This time it was more difficult to counterfeit an exclamation of joy.

"Why, everything is right where it belongs! How wonderfully you've kept house! You must have a perfect jewel of a girl, dad!"

"I let Aunt Lizzie go 'bout three years back," Tom explained. "She got—shiftless and I been sort of batching since. Clean, though, ain't it."

Barbara turned; blindly she walked to the center table and buried her face in a bouquet of wild flowers garnered from the yard. She held it there for a moment before she spoke. "You—didn't even forget that I love bluebonnets, did you, dad?"

"Bob's room was saved for the last, and Old Tom stood back, glowing at her delight. He could not refrain from showing her his blackened thumb-nail—the price of his carpentry—for he hoped she'd kiss it. And she did.

Not until she had "shooed" him out and sent him downstairs, did she give way to those emotions she had been fighting this long time: then her face grew white and tragic. "Oh, daddy, daddy!" she whispered. "What have I done to you?"

Tom Parker had raised his girl like a son, and like a son she took hold of things, but with a daughter's fact. Her intuition told her much, but she did not arrive at a full appreciation of the family affairs until she had the house running and went down to put his office in order. Then, indeed, she learned at what cost had come those four expensive years in the East, and the truth left her limp.

Tom was mortgaged to the hilt his royalties were pledged; a crow could not pick a living out of his insurance business.

Something had to be done, and quickly; a new hand was needed to mend the family fortunes. Barbara determined to lend that hand.

After a fortnight of careful consideration she decided to enter the oil business and deal in leases.

"We'll be partners, dad. You run the insurance and I'll be the lease hound."

"Say—" Tom's eye brightened. "I'll put a desk right alongside of mine—a little feller, just your size—and a nice lounge in the back room where you can lay down when you're tired. You been away so long it seems like I can't have you close enough." Another thought presented itself, and he manifested sudden excitement. "I tell you! I'll get a new sign painted, too! 'Tom and Bob Parker. Real Estate and Insurance. Oil Prop'ties and Leases.' Gosh! It's a great idea, son!"

CHAPTER IV

In Ranger Town

A YEAR before this story opens the town of Ranger, Texas, consisted of a wheatherbeaten, run-down railroad station, a black-smith shop, and a hitching rail, town enough, incidentally, for the limited number of people and the scanty amount of merchandise that passed through. The few farms and ranches round about were scattered widely, and life thereon was a grim struggle against heartbreak, by reason of the gaunt, gray, ever-present specter of the drought.

Geologists had claimed for some time that there must be coal in these north Texas counties, a contenton perhaps based upon a comfortable belief in the law of compensation.

84 VESPER COWS REACH 40 POUND BUTTERFAT CLASS

NEW MEMBERS OF ASSOCIATION ENTER RANKS OF HIGH COW OWNERS; MANY HEIFERS PRODUCING WELL

BY R. A. PETERSON
County Agricultural Agent

Eighty-four of the cows under test in the Vesper Testing Association were good enough to get into the forty pound or over butterfat class for the thirty day period ending May 15, and during the same period twenty-three two year old heifers produced thirty pounds of butter fat or better. Not so bad, is it?

Jake Huiberetse had the high cow for the period—a grade Holstein that produced 1202 pounds of milk containing 50.9 pounds of butterfat. Fred Haas was a close second with his grade Holstein "Long Neck" that produced 1260 pounds of milk and 50.2 pounds of butterfat. Both these men are appearing for the first time with the high cows, but promise to offer some competition in the future.

"Beauty" Leads Heifers

Albert Stake's grade Guernsey heifer, "Beauty" again heads the two year olds with 922 pounds of milk and 40.1 pounds of butterfat. Five of the two year olds in this class also qualified for the 30 pound list, Chas. Tomfohrde having two, Epa DeBoer one, Arthur Osman one and Albert Stake one.

The five high herds run as follows: 11 grade and pure bred Holsteins owned by G. A. Bussenor averaged 1,221 pounds of 3.52 per cent milk, or 43.1 pounds of butterfat; 11 grade and pure bred Holsteins owned by John Huiberetse averaged 1221 pounds of 3.92 per cent milk, or 40.55 pounds of butterfat; 10 grade Guernseys owned by Albert Stake averaged 804.0 pounds of 4.97 per cent milk or 39.97 pounds of butterfat; 11 pure bred Holsteins owned by Epa DeBoer averaged 1145.6 pounds of 3.42 per cent milk, or 39.2 pounds of butterfat; 16 pure bred Guernseys owned by Chas. Tomfohrde averaged 746.6 pounds of 4.8 per cent milk, or 37.9 pounds of butter fat.

10 Pound Cows

Here is the list of owners of forty pound cows with the number owned by each: G. A. Bussenor, 9; Chas. Tomfohrde, Jake Huiberetse, Albert Stake, 6; A. P. Beau, R. R. Steenbeck, Epa DeBoer, Bussenor Bros., J. B. Ostermeyer, 5; Fred Haas, John Dykstra, 4; John Olsen, Andrew Osenga, 3; Ten Pas Bros., C. A. Fox, Henry Gluesing, Leo Hazlitt, Purl McKenzie, Henry Schelten, Arthur Osenga, 2; and Lyn D. Tarrow, Peter Peterson, F. W. Jones and J. H. Termaat one each.

Here are the owners of the twenty-three two year olds in the thirty-pound class: Chas. Tomfohrde, 4; Epa DeBoer, 3; Peter Peterson, 3; Ten Pas Bros., 2; J. H. Termaat, John Dykstra, 2; R. R. Steenbeck, Jake Huiberetse, Purl McKenzie, John Scholten, Albert Stake, Andrew Osenga, Arthur Osenga, 1 each.

Sixty-seven of the 167 high cow reports, that have appeared in each of the four reports of the Association, thirteen have appeared in the four reports, and thirty-four others have appeared twice.

Mr. F. O. Welton, the tester in the Vesper Association reports that pasture is in excellent shape, as most of the farmers have silo supplied with good feed, together with a little grain, supplement can about turn out nicely. The cattle are also coming on the pastures in good condition.

Norway Holds Lost Harpoon

Bergen.—In the carcass of a whale caught in the Davis Strait, Greenland and brought into a Norwegian port, the head of an old harpoon has been found deeply embedded in the blubber.

Experts declare that the whale must have carried the harpoon in its body for some 50 years since it is of a pattern used by American whalers when they fished the Greenland coasts half a century ago.

Look At Your Hands

You can keep them white and lovely even though you do your own work—a new idea in a household soap

What a story hands can tell!

Some women's hands tell a story of the kitchen, of the scrubbing pail.

Others, a story of good-grooming.

You can have whichever you may choose.

Just because you do your own work is no reason all the world should be taken into the secret.

Few Cents a Month for Lovely Hands!

3 housewives in 4 have ugly hands because of harsh laundry soaps.

Most contain 25% to 40% water glass—a skin wrecker. A chemical analysis of 28 popular household soaps revealed that 27 contained this "filler" or adulterants.

Now we offer gentlewomen a pure soap for household work. A soap as fine as a toilet soap—yet a quicker and safer cleanser than old-time laundry soap.

Its name is Green Arrow. And it keeps hands pretty.

It costs a few cents more a month to use it. For you should figure soap cost per month, not per bar. Good soap lasts longer.

For One Week!

Obtain a bar of Green Arrow at your grocer's.

Then in one week, look at your hands.

What you see will be a revelation.

Green Arrow Soap comes in two forms — Cake Soap, for general household use—Chips (or flakes) for laundry and fine fabrics. Both offer you unusual advantages.

Your Hands Tell the Story

Rough, ugly hands tell a story to the world. A story of the kitchen, the laundry, the scrub bucket.

Most women do housework. But few want to tell it to every chance acquaintance.

Most laundry soaps contain 25 to 40% water glass. This adulterant, technically known as silicate of soda, is invariably accompanied by an excess of caustic. It is this "filler"—not soap—that ruins hands. Green Arrow is made with the precision of a toilet soap and is pure soap.

Now you can have white and lovely hands regardless of how much kitchen work you do.

For your hands and your clothes sake, go to your grocer and insist on buying GREEN ARROW.

BABE SLAMS OUT TWO HOME RUNS TO CELEBRATE THE DAY

TAKES LEAD IN AMERICAN LEAGUE RACE FOR HOME RUN HONOR; RED SOX COP TWO FROM MACK'S ATHLETES

Washington, D. C.—New York won both games from Washington on Wednesday the morning game, 6, to 4, and the afternoon contest, 9 to 5. Babe Ruth drove out a home run in each game, bringing his total for the season to eleven. Pennock outpitched a trio of Washington twirlers in the first game and Bush duplicated his performance in the final.

Sox-Indians Split

Chicago—Chicago hit Uhle and Edwards hard on Wednesday and defeated Cleveland, 7 to 2, thereby getting an even break on the holiday bills, the Indians having won the morning game, 7 to 6. Dixie Leverett was in fine form and held the visitors to six hits until the last inning while Uhle suffered three attacks by the White Sox and Edwards was hit hard in one inning.

Philadelphia—The rush of the Athletics toward the top of the American league was halted abruptly on Wednesday when Boston took both the morning and afternoon games. The first was won by a score of 6 to 5, and the second, 6 to 2. Jimmy Dykes star second baseman of the Athletics injured his leg in the morning game but tried to play in the afternoon only to retire in the second inning.

In the morning game the Red Sox drove Hasty from the mound in the eighth and continued the attack on Heimach, driving him to the showers before the inning ended. The rally netted four runs and victory.

Rommel pitched the afternoon game for the locals and was pounded hard Flagstead hit a home run in the fourth with one on base. About 45,000 fans witnessed the two games.

St. Louis—Cincinnati took both Memorial day games from St. Louis on Wednesday, winning the afternoon contest 5 to 0, and the morning game 4 to 2 in ten innings. The visitors won three of the four game series.

Haines allowed ten hits in eight innings in the second game and gave way to Barfoot in the ninth, who prover just as ineffective.

Doak threw away his own game in the forenoon contest when he tossed wild to third in the tenth, allowing Burns to score.

Boston—Philadelphia took both morning and afternoon games from Boston on Wednesday. The 5 to 3 morning game was won in the eleventh on a safe bunt by Wilson a single by Mokan and Wrightstone's triple. In the afternoon game Weinert pitched his second win of the series, this time 6 to 1, and allowed only seven hits.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Pittsburgh took both games from Chicago on Wednesday by winning the morning game 5 to 4, and the afternoon game, 10 to 2. The Pirates hit Kaufman hard in the first inning of the morning game scoring all their runs in that period. Cooper was master of the situation throughout the afternoon game. Aldridge started for Chicago, but was put off the field by Umpire McCormick in the first inning for disputing a decision. Carey knocked a homer into the right field bleachers in the afternoon game. Miller, Chicago left fielder was hit on the head by a pitched ball in the morning game and forced to retire.

New York—Before crowd of 45,000 a new record for National league attendance, the New York Giants broke their losing streak and defeated Brooklyn, 9 to 6, after losing the morning game of the Memorial day double header to the Dodgers, 5 to 2. Vance pitched airtight ball for the Dodgers in he morning, striking out eight of the champions, but in the second game Dickerman, who had won five straight previously was knocked out of the box by the Giants in the fourth inning of a see saw battle.

Pinkey Is Aroused Over Decision Of Referee In Bout

Chicago—The vanquished Pinkey Mitchell, holder of the junior welterweight belt, issued the following statement shortly after the bout:

"We were in a clinch," Pink said, "Miller grabbed my left arm and broke me loose. He started to turn me away and as he did so permitted Leonard to step around behind and hit me on the chin.

"He made no effort to break Leonard's hold at the time, permitting Leonard to creep all the way behind him before he would release his hold on my arm. I did not have a chance to protect myself, my chin being wide open for the right hand punch that put me down.

"I'm not a poor loser, but I'd like to get Leonard in Milwaukee of New York, where I will receive a square deal and I'll show him that I'll whip him just as I did during the first nine rounds Tuesday night. I think Benny is a poor excuse as a lightweight champion. I have met greater fighters than he and I'll bet my life that he will never go the limit if I get him again.

"I had him wobbly and holding on several times in the fight and if I ever meet him where I'd be given the same treatment as he there will be the same story to write as you are writing now, only it would be the opposite way and there would be no technicalities connected with it."

Mitchell lost by a technical knockout in the tenth round but his followers claim that he should have been awarded the fight because of two violations, the first violation occuring when Leonard did not retire to his corner while Pinkie was on the floor and the second violation occuring when Leonard hit Mitchel while he still had one hand on the floor. Up until the finish Mitchell had a slight shade.

Simpson Is Low In Season's First Golf Tournament

James Simpson, playing in Class B., turned in the low gross score of yesterday's sweep-stakes at the Bull's Eye country club with an 86 for the eighteen holes, and took first prize in his class with a net 71, his handicap being 15. Don Johnson, handcap 24, turned in a 97, net 73, for second place in the first division.

In Class C., C. A. Normington, handicap 26, turned in a 97, net 71 for first place, and Stanton Mead took second place with an even 100, net 74. A. G. Miller and W. E. Nash tied for first place in Class D., with scores of 109, which gave them net 79, a piece. T. E. Mullen took second place with a net 80.

Simpson's playing while not spectacular, was the feature of the event He played consistently at all times and turned in totals of 43 for both rounds.

Fifty-three members, of the local club, including a number of Stevens Point men took part in the event, the first tournament of the season. The sports committee expressed itself as well pleased with the interest shown, and is now planning a number of other event which will be announced in the near future.

Tommy Milton Takes Honors at Indianapolis Speedway

(By Associated Press)

Indianapolis, Ind.—Tommy Milton of St. Paul, Minn., achieved the ambition of his brilliant racing career on Wednesday, when, for the second time he won the 500 mile automobile race over the Indianapolis motor speedway, repeating his victory of 1921 before a crowd of 150,000 spectators. It was the greatest throng that ever witnessed a sporting event in America. Milton's time for the 500 miles was 5:28:06:27, giving him an average speed of 91.5 miles an hour as compared with the record breaking speed of 94.49 made a year ago.

Harry Hartz of Los Angeles who finished second in the 1922 race, thundered across the finishing line five miles behind Milton, while Jimmy Murphy winner of the 1922 race, was third, about thirteen miles behind Hartz. Hartz's time was 5:33:05:90, for an average of 90.06 miles an hour. Murphy finished in 5:40:26:64, for an average speed of 88.08 miles an hour.

Trains of thought usually are delayed by excess baggage.

LOWEST PRICES

Here Is A Store With A Home-Like Air But With The Buying Power Of A Gaint.

Linked together in a massive chain—welded by one common purpose to be able to get a quantity price, we are joined in a solid front of 900 stores demanding the same concessions, the same discounts and the same quality that is enjoyed by the largest department and chain store organizations in the country.

This store, its management and its employes is a part and parcel of their community. The ideals and the accomplishments of its citizens are our ideals and accomplishments. With money and labor we support the schools and the churches, the charities and the home institutions. Whatever profits we make are re-invested here. Whatever we sell has our personal backing. Whatever we give is given freely.

Buying in the world markets in great car load lots—taking the output of entire factories, but accepting for our store and for your approval only such small quantities and such items as we feel will fit your needs, we occupy an enviable position. Eliminating all that foreign contact between customer and store, we strive each day to merit, not only with price and quality, the approval of our friends and customers but in addition to that we endeavor to confine our dealings and our efforts to giving a service second to none.

Think of Oil in Terms of 1923

IN considering the oil business as it is today, we must think in terms of 1923 and not in terms of 1913 — which was before such unheard of impetus had been given to the automotive industry.

In 1913 there were but 1,287,000 motor vehicles registered in the United States, while the year ending December 31, 1922, saw a total registration of 12,239,114 — an increase of 900%.

The magnitude of the oil business is so vast that no man can visualize it clearly. It is difficult to picture the needs of 12¼ million automobiles, to say nothing of the vast gallonage needed to supply tractors, stationary gas engines, and the demand for gasoline coming from the arts and industries generally.

The problem of supplying 12¼ million cars is quite different from the problem confronting the industry a decade ago when but 1¾ million cars were in commission.

The adaptation to a changing situation meant the making over of the petroleum industry.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has retained its leadership by expanding its facilities both in the manufacture and distribution rapidly enough to meet the insistent demand for greater service.

During the past ten years the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has grown as the need for its products and service has grown. This ever-increasing demand for petroleum products has made it necessary for the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to expand its facilities to an extraordinary degree. Yet, with its multiplied facilities, the Company finds that all its energies are absorbed in meeting the demand for its products from 30 million people in the ten Middle Western States it serves.

While proud of the service it has rendered in the past, the Standard Oil Company today is thinking in terms of 1923 and the years to come.

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE®

84 VESPER COWS REACH 40 POUND BUTTERFAT CLASS

NEW MEMBERS OF ASSOCIATION ENTER RANKS OF HIGH COW OWNERS; MANY HEIFERS PRODUCING WELL

BY R. A. PETERSON
County Agricultural Agent

Eighty-four of the cows under test in the Vesper Testing Association were good enough to get into the forty pound or over butterfat class for the thirty day period ending May 15, and during the same period twenty-three two year old heifers produced thirty pounds of butter fat or better. Not so bad, is it?

Jake Huibregtse had the high cow for the period—a grade Holstein that produced 1302 pounds of milk containing 50.9 pounds of butterfat. Fred Haas was a close second with his grade Holstein "Long Neck" that produced 1260 pounds of milk and 50.2 pounds of butterfat. Both these men are appearing for the first time with the high cows, but promise to offer keen competition in the future.

"Beauty" Leads Heifers

Albert Stake's grade Guernsey heifer, "Beauty" again heads the two year olds with 933 pounds of milk and 49.1 pounds of butterfat. Five of the two year olds in this class also qualified for the 40 pound list, Chas. Tomfohrde having two, Epa DeBoer one, Arthur Oseuga one and Albert Stake one.

The five high herds run as follows: 11 grade and pure bred Holsteins owned by G. A. Bassemer averaged 1,221 pounds of 3.55 per cent milk, or 43.1 pounds of butterfat; 11 grade and pure bred Holsteins owned by John Dykstra averaged 1221 pounds of 3.32 per cent milk, or 40.55 pounds of butterfat; 10 grade Guernseys owned by Albert Stake averaged 804.0 pounds of 4.97 per cent milk or 39.97 pounds of butterfat; 11 pure bred Holsteins owned by Epa DeBoer averaged 1145.6 pounds of 3.42 per cent milk, or 39.2 pounds of butter fat; 16 pure bred Guernseys owned by Chas. Tomfohrde averaged 786.6 pounds of 4.8 per cent milk, or 37.9 pounds of butter fat.

10 Pound Cows

Here is the list of owners of forty pound cows with the number owned by each: G. A. Bassemer, 9; Chas. Tomfohrde, Jake Huibregtse, Albert Stake, 6; A. P. Bean, R. R. Steenbeck, Epa DeBoer, Bussema Bros., J. B. Ostermeyer, 5; Fred Haas, John Dykstra, 4; John Olsen, Andrew Oseuga, 3; Ten Pas Bros., C. A. Fox, Henry Gluesing, Leo Hamlin, Purl McKenzie, Henry Scholten, Arthur Oseuga, 2; and Lyns D. Turner, Peter Peterson, F. W. Jones and J. H. Termaat one each.

Here are the owners of the twenty-three two year olds in the thirty-pound class: Chas. Tomfohrde, 4; Epa DeBoer, 3; Peter Peterson, 3; TenPas Brothers, J. H. Termaat, John Dykstra, 2; R. R. Steenbeck, Jake Huibregtse, Purl McKenzie, John Scholten, Albert Stake, Andrew Oseuga, Arthur Oseuga, 1 each.

Seventeen of the 107 high cows reported this month have appeared in each of the four reports of the Association, thirteen have appeared in the list three times and thirty-four others have been listed twice.

Mr. E. O. Wellop, the tester in the Vesper Association reports that pastures are somewhat late, but most of the members are still supplied with good silage which together with a little grain feed supplements the short pasture nicely. The cattle are also coming onto the pastures in good condition.

Norway Holds Lost Harpoon

Bergen.—In the carcass of a whale caught in the Davis Strait, Greenland and brought into a Norwegian port, the head of an old harpoon has been found deeply embedded in the blubber.

Experts declare that the whale must have carried the harpoon in its body for some 50 years since it is of a pattern used by American whalers when they fished the Greenland coasts half a century ago.

Look At Your Hands
You can keep them white and lovely even though you do your own work—a new idea in a household soap

What a story hands can tell!
Some women's hands tell a story of the kitchen, of the scrubbing pail.
Others, a story of good-grooming.
You can have whichever you may choose.
Just because you do your own work is no reason all the world should be taken into the secret.

Few Cents a Month for Lovely Hands!
3 housewives in 4 have ugly hands because of harsh laundry soaps.
Most contain 25% to 40% water glass—a skin wrecker. A chemical analysis of 28 popular household soaps revealed that 27 contained this "filler" or adulterants.
Now we offer gentlewomen a pure soap for household work. A soap as fine as a toilet soap—yet a quicker and safer cleanser than old-time laundry soap.
Its name is Green Arrow. And it keeps hands pretty.
It costs a few cents more a month to use it. For you should figure soap cost per month, not per bar. Good soap lasts longer.

For One Week!
Obtain a bar of Green Arrow at your grocer's.
Then in one week, look at your hands.
What you see will be a revelation.
Green Arrow Soap comes in two forms — Cake Soap, for general household use—Chips (or flakes) for laundry and fine fabrics. Both offer you unusual advantages.

Your Hands Tell the Story
Rough, ugly hands tell a story to the world. A story of the kitchen, the laundry, the scrub bucket.
Most women do housework. But few want to tell it to every chance acquaintance.
Most laundry soaps contain 25 to 40% water glass. This adulterant, technically known as silicate of soda, is invariably accompanied by an excess of caustic. It is this "filler"—not soap—that ruins hands. Green Arrow is made with the precision of a toilet soap and is pure soap.
Now you can have white and lovely hands regardless of how much kitchen work you do.
For your hands and your clothes sake, go to your grocer and insist on buying GREEN ARROW.

BABE SLAMS OUT TWO HOME RUNS TO CELEBRATE THE DAY

TAKES LEAD IN AMERICAN LEAGUE RACE FOR HOME RUN HONOR; RED SOX COP TWO FROM MACK'S ATHLETES

Washington, D. C.—New York won both games from Washington on Wednesday the morning game, 6, to 4, and the afternoon contest, 9 to 5. Babe Ruth drove out a home run in each game, bringing his total for the season to eleven. Pennock outpitched a trio of Washington twirlers in the first game and Bush duplicated his performance in the final.

Sox-Indians Split

Chicago—Chicago hit Uhle and Edwards hard on Wednesday and defeated Cleveland, 7 to 2, thereby getting an even break on the holiday tilts, the Indians having won the morning game, 7 to 6. Dixie Leverett was in fine form and held the visitors to six hits until the last inning while Uhle suffered three attacks by the White Sox and Edwards was hit hard in one inning.

Philadelphia—The rush of the Athletics toward the top of the American league was halted abruptly on Wednesday when Boston took both the morning and afternoon games. The first was won by a score of 6 to 5, and the second, 6 to 2. Jimmy Dykes star second baseman of the Athletics injured his leg in the morning game but tried to play in the afternoon only to retire in the second inning.

In the morning game the Red Sox drove Hasty from the mound in the eighth and continued the attack on Heimach, driving him to the showers before the inning ended. The rally netted four runs and victory.

Rommel pitched the afternoon game for the locals and was pounded hard Flagstead hit a home run in the fourth with one on base. About 45,000 fans witnessed the two games.

St. Louis—Cincinnati took both Memorial day games from St. Louis on Wednesday, winning the afternoon contest 5 to 0, and the morning game 4 to 2 in ten innings. The visitors won three of the four game series.

Haines allowed ten hits in eight innings in the second game and gave way to Barfoot in the ninth, who prover just as ineffective.

Doak threw away his own game in the forenoon contest when he tossed wild to third in the tenth, allowing Burns to score.

Boston—Philadelphia took both morning and afternoon games from Boston on Wednesday. The 5 to 3 morning game was won in the eleventh on a safe bunt by Wilson a single by Mokan and Wrightstone's triple. In the afternoon game Weinert pitched his second win of the series, this time 6 to 1, and allowed only seven hits.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Pittsburgh took both games from Chicago on Wednesday by winning the morning game 5 to 4, and the afternoon game, 10 to 2. The Pirates hit Kaufman hard in the first inning of the morning game scoring all their runs in that period. Cooper was master of the situation throughout the afternoon game. Aldridge started for Chicago, but was put off the field by Umpire McCormick in the first inning for disputing a decision. Carey knocked a homer into the right field bleachers in the afternoon game. Miller, Chicago left fielder was hit on the head by a pitched ball in the morning game and forced to retire.

New York—Before crowd of 45,000 a new record for National league attendance, the New York Giants broke their losing streak and defeated Brooklyn, 9 to 6, after losing the morning game of the Memorial day double header to the Dodgers, 5 to 2. Vance pitched airtight ball for the Dodgers in he morning, striking out eight of the champions, but in the second game Dickerman, who had won five straight previously was knocked out of the box by the Giants in the fourth inning of a see saw battle.

Pinkey Is Aroused Over Decision Of Referee In Bout

Chicago—The vanquished Pinkey Mitchell, holder of the junior welterweight belt, issued the following statement shortly after the bout:

"We were in a clinch," Pink said, "Miller grabbed my left arm and broke me loose. He started to turn me away and as he did so permitted Leonard to creep around behind and hit me on the chin.

"He made no effort to break Leonard's hold at the time, permitting Leonard to creep all the way behind him before he would release his hold on my arm. I did not have a chance to protect myself, my chin being wide open for the right hand punch that put me down.

"I'm not a poor loser, but I'd like to get Leonard in Milwaukee of New York, where I will receive a square deal and I'll show him that I'll whip him just as I did during the first nine rounds Tuesday night. I think Benny is a poor excuse as a lightweight champion. I have met greater fighters than he and I'll bet my life that he will never go the limit if I get him again.

"I had him wobbly and holding on several times in the fight and if I ever meet him where I'd be given the same treatment as he there will be the same story to write as you are writing now, only it would be the opposite way and there would be no technicalities connected with it."

Mitchell lost by a technical knockout in the tenth round but his followers claim that he should have been awarded the fight because of two violations, the first violation occuring when Leonard did not retire to his corner while Pinkie was on the floor and the second violation occuring when Leonard hit Mitchel while he still had one hand on the floor. Up until the finish Mitchell had a slight shade.

Simpson Is Low In Season's First Golf Tournament

James Simpson, playing in Class B., turned in the low gross score of yesterday's sweep-stakes at the Bull's Eye country club with an 86 for the eighteen holes, and took first prize in his class with a net 71, his handicap being 15. Don Johnson, handcap 24, turned in a 97, net 73, for second place in the first division.

In Class C., C. A. Normington, handicap 26, turned in a 97, net 71 for first place, and Stanton Mead took second place with an even 100, net 74. A. G. Miller and W. E. Nash tied for first place in Class D., with scores of 109, which gave them net 79, a piece. T. E. Mullen took second place with a net 80.

Simpson's playing while not spectacular, was the feature of the event He played consistently at all times and turned in totals of 43 for both rounds.

Fifty-three members, of the local club, including a number of Stevens Point men took part in the event, the first tournament of the season. The sports committee expressed itself as well pleased with the interest shown, and is now planning a number of other event which will be announced in the near future.

Tommy Milton Takes Honors at Indianapolis Speedway

(By Associated Press)

Indianapolis, Ind.—Tommy Milton of St. Paul, Minn., achieved the ambition of his brilliant racing career on Wednesday, when, for the second time he won the 500 mile automobile race over the Indianapolis motor speedway, repeating his victory of 1921 before a crowd of 150,000 spectators. It was the greatest throng that ever witnessed a sporting event in America. Milton's time for the 500 miles was 5:28:06:27, giving him an average speed of 91.5 miles an hour as compared with the record breaking speed of 94.49 made a year ago.

Harry Hartz of Los Angeles who finished second in the 1922 race, thundered across the finishing line five miles behind Milton, while Jimmy Murphy winner of the 1922 race, was third, about thirteen miles behind Hartz. Hartz's time was 5:33:05:90, for an average of 90.06 miles an hour. Murphy finished in 5:40:36:64, for an average speed of 88.08 miles an hour.

Think of Oil in Terms of 1923

IN considering the oil business as it is today, we must think in terms of 1923 and not in terms of 1913 — which was before such unheard of impetus had been given to the automotive industry.

In 1913 there were but 1,287,000 motor vehicles registered in the United States, while the year ending December 31, 1922, saw a total registration of 12,239,114 — an increase of 900%.

The magnitude of the oil business is so vast that no man can visualize it clearly. It is difficult to picture the needs of 12¼ million automobiles, to say nothing of the vast gallonage needed to supply tractors, stationary gas engines, and the demand for gasoline coming from the arts and industries generally.

The problem of supplying 12¼ million cars is quite different from the problem confronting the industry a decade ago when but 1¼ million cars were in commission.

The adaptation to a changing situation meant the making over of the petroleum industry.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has retained its leadership by expanding its facilities both in the manufacture and distribution rapidly enough to meet the insistent demand for greater service.

During the past ten years the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has grown as the need for its products and service has grown. This ever-increasing demand for petroleum products has made it necessary for the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to expand its facilities to an extraordinary degree. Yet, with its multiplied facilities, the Company finds that all its energies are absorbed in meeting the demand for its products from 30 million people in the ten Middle Western States it serves.

While proud of the service it has rendered in the past, the Standard Oil Company today is thinking in terms of 1923 and the years to come.

GOOD EVENING — Johnson & Hill Co. — STRAW HATS

HIGHEST QUALITY — Buy here - save the difference — LOWEST PRICES

Here Is A Store With A Home-Like Air But With The Buying Power Of A Gaint.

Linked together in a massive chain—welded by one common purpose to be able to get a quantity price, we are joined in a solid front of 900 stores demanding the same concessions, the same discounts and the same quality that is enjoyed by the largest department and chain store organizations in the country.

This store, its management and its employes is a part and parcel of their community. The ideals and the accomplishments of its citizens are our ideals and accomplishments. With money and labor we support the schools and the churches, the charities and the home institutions. Whatever profits we make are re-invested here. Whatever we sell has our personal backing. Whatever we give is given freely.

Buying in the world markets in great car load lots—taking the output of entire factories, but accepting for our store and for your approval only such small quantities and such items as we feel will fit your needs, we occupy an enviable position. Eliminating all that foreign contact between customer and store, we strive each day to merit, not only with price and quality, the approval of our friends and customers but in addition to that we endeavor to confine our dealings and our efforts to giving a service second to none.
